

ABTRACT

The purpose of this study was to find out the health and sanitation practices of the residents of Brgy. Botongon, Estancia, Iloilo. The Independent variables were the family income and geographical location. The dependent variable was the Health and Sanitation Practices of the Residents of Brgy. Botongon, Estancia, Iloilo. The respondents were the selected residents of Brgy. Botongon, Estancia, Iloilo which was taken as 10% of 83 household. questionnaires. It was divided into two parts. Part I was personal data. Part 11 was the Health and Sanitation Practices and the respondents. The descriptive statistical tools were the mean and the analysis variance set at 0.05 alpha level of significance. The result of the study showed very good health and sanitation practices of the residents of Brgy. Botongon, Estancia, Iloilo when grouped according to family income and geographical location.